

METHOD, SYSTEM AND PROGRAM PRODUCT FOR OBTAINING APPLICATION DATA

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An improved solution for obtaining application data for a network application. The application data is received using a data page displayed to a user during a session with the network application. Prior to submitting the application data to the network application, it is first ensured that the session is valid. In particular, if the session remains valid, then the application data is submitted. However, if the session is no longer valid, then a new session is established prior to the application data being submitted.